

Summary

Design team leader and design community advocate with 25+ years' experience working in brand design across all media for national and international businesses and organizations

Experience

Design Director

Overit, Albany, NY, Jan 2022–present

Overit is a full-service agency of 40+ creatives working across a number of business spaces both regionally and nationally. I work with and manage a team of 6 brand designers who focus on print, web, and rich media.

Co-founder & Design Director

id29, Troy, NY, Oct 2003–Dec 2021

I co-founded id29 in Troy, NY in 2003 and I was responsible for the design direction of a small to mid-level design and marketing firm. I managed and art directed our award-winning design team of 9 during that time, building our reputation regionally and nationally for creative excellence based upon research and sound business strategy. We helped build brands, campaigns and marketing strategies for clients such as: Cobra Puma Golf, Pitney Bowes, Firefly Bicycles, The Steve Case Foundation, Union College, and New York State Parks. id29 was the agency behind Scholastic's national campaign for Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, which sold 8.3M copies in the first day.

Director of Design

Massachusetts Museum of Contemporary Art
North Adams, MA, May 1995–Oct 2003

I joined the MASS MoCA project as its second employee and established the MASS MoCA Design Department in 1995—four years before our public opening in May 1999. During that time, I helped put the country's largest arts center on the world's cultural map by designing the museum's identity system, wayfinding and gallery signage, roof sign, print collateral, exhibition catalogs, merchandise and web presence. Some of my design work from MASS MoCA can be found here.

Advocacy

I'm a long-time member of AIGA Upstate New York—the Professional Association for Design—whose mission is to build and promote the Upstate NY design community and advance design as a vital cultural force. In 2016, I served a 2-year term as President of AIGA UPSTNY, helping grow the organization's member base and outreach to new levels. I've been programming design community events—such as our annual Student Portfolio Review—since 2008.

About Me

I frequently lecture on design, and have written for design publications such as Speak Up and HOW Magazine. In 2010, I was named by Graphic Design USA as one of the top 50 People to Watch. I live in Brunswick, NY with my family and enjoy fishing in the Adirondacks, playing in the local rec soccer league, and yelling at the television when the US National Teams and Liverpool FC are on.
